

Dennis Hardy

I recently retired from teaching in which my final year role involved teaching primary maths which has given me a first hand appreciation of the challenges of primary teaching. An Engineer by background I have also taught at university level and spent six years of that time in SE Asian teaching post.

I am a member of Ivy Church and take a keen interest in our local community in the Heaton. I have been part of the governing body through all the recent building developments of our school and currently serve on the curriculum committee and hold the role for vulnerable groups including BME and EAL.
